U.S. Assured Reds to Keep Seeking Peace

By FRANK CORMIER

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — President Johnson said today he has received a heartening pledge from the new Soviet Premier that the Soviet Union will "maintain its own search for peace with the West."

In a speech, prepared for delivery in the historic Mormon Tabernacle, Johnson said the United States "must work to guide the inevitable changes that lie ahead" in Communist countries.

Johnson made an overnight stop in Salt Lake City in order to breakfast with David O. McKay, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) and to speak in the church's tabernacle.

After two days of campaigning in the West, the President was pointing his vote-seeking efforts eastward, with other appearances planned today in Wichita, Kan., and Philadelphia.

In his tabernacle text, Johnson said that when Nikita Khrushchev was toppled as Soviet premier, "I sent word to Moscow that our basic policy remained unchanged."

"He reported that the new premier, Alexei Kosygin, has replied that 'the Soviet Union would maintain its present policies and seek better relations — and maintain its own search for peace — with the West.'"

Johnson said Kosygin wrote that "the Soviet Union would continue its communications with the United States — and would continue to explore areas of mutual interest."

Terminating this "a heartening response," the President promised the United States "will continue with every resource to work for a lasting and just and honorable peace."

Mrs. Ruth Cain Dies Thursday

Mrs. Ruth Cain, aged 74, longtime resident of Hope, died Thursday in a local hospital. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

Survivors include her husband, R. E. Cain, two sisters, Mrs. Joe M. Houston and Mrs. May Blackard, both of Hope. Services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at Herndon-Cornelius Chapel by the Rev. Bill Moore. Burial will be in Memory Gardens.

Reject Backing of Communism, LBJ Challenged

By WALTER R. MEARS

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, toughening the line of his presidential challenge with a charge that Democrats have Communist backing, hunted Pennsylvania voters today on a windup whistle-stop swing.

The Republican nominee for the White House took to a campaign train after a journey through the Midwest and a demand that the Democrats denounce Communists and "their backing." He said Communist publications were "pulling for the defeat of Republican candidates."

Goldwater keynoted a five-stop railroad journey to Pittsburgh with a complaint that President Johnson had used "false and degrading tricks" against him.

"He tells the American public I want to tear up their Social Security cards," Goldwater said in a speech for Lewistown, Pa.

"There is not an ounce of truth in this smear, and my opponent knows that full well." The whistle-stop tour was Goldwater's third campaign foray into Pennsylvania, a state he believes the GOP likely can carry if the Democrats are held to a 250,000-vote margin in Philadelphia.

An Oshkosh, Wis., crowd rose to cheer him Wednesday when the Arizona senator brewed into his presidential bid the charge that Democrats have Communist backers.

Brandishing a copy of "The Worker," Goldwater told some 1,600 people in a high school auditorium the Communist newspaper has urged voters to "smash Goldwaterism."

"I haven't heard a Democratic candidate yet say he doesn't want the Communist party working for him," Goldwater said.

"Now I am not accusing any Democrat of being a Communist, but I am getting a little sick and tired of their not denouncing this party, this Communist group, not denouncing their backing."

Ordeal of Life Is Becoming a Gourmet But Childhood Food Appeals to the Aged

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals is becoming a gourmet.

For more than half a century I have tried to swim along with the new-and-strange food crowd, but I suppose I'll always be an outsider.

This is so even though I have tried hard to appreciate the other fellow's menu, in my house, in his country. My trouble is that the older I grow, the more I appreciate the foods of my childhood, some of which I rejected in my youth.

My trouble also is that I am too cowardly to say "no" to the initial helping of any food, and therefore I must please my host by taking a second helping — and gulp it out of sight.

This world is full of amateur chefs, and in my travels through some 67 countries, kingdoms, islands and protectorates I have never found a place that didn't subject me to the acid invitation, "Here's something I'll bet you've never had before — try this."

It makes me momentarily hiccup to think of what I have eaten in the exercise of politeness.

I have eaten quail eggs in Japan, octopus tentacles in Naples, eels in a place I'd rather forget, horse meat in London in wartime, whale meat in New York, and lamb's head in the Algerian desert.

I have eaten bear's testis

Win Surprised by Big Crowds in N. Arkansas

By JOHN R. STARR

Associated Press Writer
ROGERS, Ark. (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller knew he had strong support in Northwest Arkansas but he and his aides were surprised Wednesday by the warmth of the reception the Rockefeller campaign got in Washington and Benton counties.

The Republican candidate for governor responded to enthusiastic crowds by delivering some of his most driving speeches of the race against Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Rockefeller told about 1,000 persons at a rally in the Rogers High School gymnasium that Faubus was running "desperately to save his machine."

"I wonder if he is running to save himself or the machine," Rockefeller said. "What are the pressures being put on this man? Are they hiding something? If so, it's high time we found out what it was."

Rockefeller started the day with a speech on the square at Fayetteville and he moved rapidly through the small communities of Farmington, Prairie Grove, Lincoln and West Fork to another major down-town speech in Springdale.

He then took time out to eat and then moved on to meet the noisy, enthusiastic crowd here.

The show in the gymnasium had all the trappings of a political convention, including noisemakers, name cards for the delegations from the various towns and student demonstrators who launched the rally.

Rockefeller was accompanied on the Washington County phase of the tour by a host of Republican candidates for county offices, congressional candidate Jerry Hinshaw and Travis Beeson of Camden, the GOP candidate for lieutenant governor.

At least 500 people lined up through the loud-speaker equipment on his campaign bus, which headed a motorcade of about a dozen automobiles.

Rockefeller called himself the candidate who will take Arkansas into the jet age and he said Faubus wants to keep the state in a horse-and-buggy economy.

To emphasize his view of the governor's position, Rockefeller recalled that Faubus, as a campaign gimmick, drove a team of mules during a recent appearance in Ripon.

"I'm sure my supporters in Madison County will be glad to buy the governor a team of mules to make him happy in his retirement," Rockefeller told the Rogers group. The jest was greeted with wild applause.

Rockefeller said he believes he can effect economies in the operation of the state government.

Ballot Tuesday to Run Something Like This

Next Tuesday's General Election ballot will be long and probably confusing to many voters. So the Star has listed below the contested races to be on the ballot, along with the eight amendments and what they are about.

There will be about 14 state and county races on the ballot with no opposition. They should not even be considered by the voter and by not marking them will save precinct officials time. If they are marked they have to be counted although there is no opposition.

For instance, George Peck Sr., is running for Board of Directors of the Southwest Arkansas Water District. He has no opposition. And three persons have no opposition for the city Board of Directors: Donal Parker, Post 1; John B. Gardner Jr., Post 2; and Bill Wray, Post 4.

One place on the ballot will say for or against Road Tax. You may as well vote for this as it is a continuing tax and not a new one. Even if voters ballot it down, the Quorum Court can set it up again.

District officials who have no opposition include John W. Goodson, Judge Wesley Howard, Congressman Oren Harris, County officers without opposition are Orle O. Byers, Jimmie Griffin, Harry Hawthorne, and Jim Cole.

FOR PRESIDENT (Vote for one for president, one for vice-president)
Barry M. Goldwater, president, Republican.
William E. Miller, v-president, Republican.
John Kasper, president, State Rights.
J.B. Stoner, V-pres., State rights.
Lyndon B. Johnson, president, Democrat.
Hubert H. Humphrey, vice-president, Democrat.

FOR GOVERNOR
Win Rockefeller, Republican
Orval E. Faubus, Democrat
FOR LT. GOVERNOR
Nathan Gordon, Democrat
Travis N. Beeson, Republican

FOR SECRETARY OF STATE
Kelly Bryant, Democrat
Charles R. Watson, Republican
FOR TAX ASSESSOR
Carter Sutton, Democrat
Dora Gunter King, Republican

FOR REPRESENTATIVE
Talbot Field Jr., Democrat
Mrs. Bobby Campbell, Republican
FOR CORONER
J. T. Honeycutt, Democrat
Dr. C. Lynn Harris, Republican

FOR JUSTICE OF PEACE DEPARTMENT TOWNSHIP (Vote for 10)
Ralph Lehman, Democrat
Bob Jackson, Republican
Perry H. Henley, Democrat
Mrs. John O'Dell, Republican
Jesse A. Brown, Democrat
Mrs. Haskell Jones, Republican
George Walden, Democrat
Cecil Delaney, Democrat
Austin Hutson, Democrat
Cris C. Stuart, Sr., Democrat
Lynn Montgomery, Democrat

Here's the order the amendments will appear on the ballot: Amendment 51—To increase the maximum salaries of state officials and eliminates the office of state land commissioner. Amendment 52—To permit portions of counties or areas in more than one county to join in a district for taxing purposes to finance industry and hospitals.

Amendment 53—To increase the maximum property tax that cities and counties collect for general operating expenses to 10 mills for purpose of repairing bridges and construction on county roads.

Amendment 54—To set up a permanent voter registration system and abolish the poll tax as a requirement for voting.

Amendment 55—To make gambling lawful in Garland County and only Garland county if approved by voters of that county.

Amendment 56 — Classification of counties to increase maximum salaries of county officials.

W. L. Ellis, 76, Dies in California

William Luther Ellis, 76, a former resident of Hope, died Tuesday. He lived at West Point, Calif.

Surviving are his wife, a son, William of Texarkana; three daughters, Mrs. W. Starnes and Mrs. W. E. Cook, both of Bay City, Texas; Mrs. Elizabeth Yocom of Hope; six stepchildren, Mrs. O. G. Andrews of West Point, Mrs. Leo Kiffin of Mt. View, Ark., Mrs. J. B. Collins of Artesia, Calif., Alfred Neal of Anaheim, Calif., Alvin Neal of Lakewood, Calif.

Four sisters, Mrs. Buck Arnold of Oklahoma; Mrs. John Sparks of Texarkana, Mrs. Michael Ellis of Bloomington, Ind., Mrs. Aline Britt of Houston; two brothers, Tom Ellis of Hope and Lee Ellis of Texarkana.

Kiwanians Plan Pancake Supper Friday

Hope Kiwanis club's annual pancake supper will be served at the high school cafeteria from 5 to 7 p.m. Friday preceding the Hope-Camden football game scheduled for 7:30.

Tickets have been on sale several days and may be obtained from any member of the Kiwanis club. The supper includes pancakes, sausage, butter, coffee and cold drinks. All that a person can eat for the price of a single admission.

All members of the club will be on hand to serve the public, and proceeds will go to a worthwhile Youth Project.

At Tuesday's meeting of the club, final plans were made for the supper, and then Attorney Albert Graves III spoke on the proposed amendments which will appear on the election ballot November 3. Five members of the Key Club were guests.

Jerry McPherson was introduced as a new member.

Charges U.S. Ships Attacked N. Viet Nam

TOKYO (AP) — North Viet Nam charged Friday "air and naval craft of the U.S. and its agents" again bombed and shelled North Vietnamese territory.

Radio Hanoi, in a broadcast monitored here, said the announcement was made by a spokesman of the North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry in a statement issued Thursday. It said:

"At 000 hours of Oct. 28, 1964, three jet planes and five T28 aircraft of the United States, coming from the direction of Laos, bombed and rocketed the Cha Lo frontier post, which is situated in the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam territory in Quang Binh Province, at a place two kilometers (1.2 miles) from the Viet Nam-Laos border."

It added: "At 2300 hours (11 p.m.) of the same day, three naval craft of the United States and its agents, sailing from South Viet Nam, intruded into the territorial waters of the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam, shelled the coastal areas of Quang Binh Province and subsequently fled."

New Invasion of Malaysia by Indonesia

By PETER ARNETT
MALACCA, Malaysia (AP) — About 60 Indonesian guerrillas, attacking in two groups, landed by sea on the southwest coast of Malaysia's mainland early today but by nightfall almost half of them were reported captured. A military spokesman said the others were pinned down in swampy jungles 30 miles south of here by a force of Australian, New Zealand and Malaysian troops. The spokesman said a holding action would be carried out through the night, and mopping up operations will be launched at daybreak. The spokesman reported 25 prisoners taken during initial encounters with police and soldiers along the Kesang River, near the border of Malacca and Johore states. He said not a shot was fired. The spokesman said the raiders were tracked down, called upon to surrender and came out of the bush with their hands in the air. Prime Minister Abdul Rahman announced five boatloads of guerrillas landed before dawn on the southwest coast between Malacca and Muar. Home Minister Ismail Bin Abdul Rahman, Malaysia's top internal security official, made a flying tour of the Malacca-Muar area and told newsmen that Malaysian forces had the situation well in hand. "We have encountered a large number of the invaders," he said, "and the battle between them and security forces is in progress. We have every reason to be successful."

No Reports From Morrilton Jury

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — The foreman of the Conway County grand jury which indicted top Winthrop Rockefeller aide Everett Ham Jr. for perjury said Wednesday there may be no more reports until after Nov. 3. The jury is investigating the possibility of conspiracy against Sheriff Marlin Hawkins. Earlier it indicted former Morrilton publisher Gene Wirges for slander of Hawkins at a news conference. Wirges announced then that gubernatorial candidate Rockefeller had financed his investigation of Conway County politics.

ment. "We don't need extra taxes now, but we do need efficiency in government," he said in his strongest statement yet on taxation. He also attacked Faubus again for saying that racial demonstrators should be run over and because the governor is doing nothing about election irregularities around the state. Rockefeller said he is being told in many areas that he can win the election if it is not stolen from him. He said the Faubus machine "not only condones but participates in the stealing of ballots." He said Faubus is so wrapped up in his own ego that he only talks about the past and is not thinking about the future of Arkansas. Rockefeller was introduced at Fayetteville and the smaller Washington County towns by Willis Ricketts of Fayetteville, the GOP candidate for governor two years ago. He said voters have a choice between his program of "progress with vigor" and Faubus' promise to "keep progress alive." Everywhere he went, Rockefeller was told that he would carry Washington and Benton counties and he agreed in an interview that he probably would. He said his main strength this time is in Northwest Arkansas, Central Arkansas and the non-Delta counties of Northeast Arkansas.

changes" inside the Communist bloc, Johnson said: "All political systems change. They are forced to — by historic circumstance." He said it would be "dangerously foolish" to expect either the Soviet Union or Communist China to soon become open societies. But he said it "would be equally foolish to think they will never change." He continued: "Inside Russia today a powerful force for a change is at work — education, the bedrock of democracy, the enemy of dictatorship. Inside the Communist bloc, powerful currents are surging against the dam." "We cannot sit idly by — we must work to guide the inevitable changes that lie ahead." Johnson spent Wednesday in Southern California, talking to large crowds in Los Angeles, Riverside, San Bernardino, and San Diego. Before a whoop-it-up audience in Riverside, Johnson claimed for himself the mantle of responsibility. In an off-the-cuff remark he said: "The hotheads ought to go back to the bench in the hot-house." He said, "We have had enough of reckless talk, we have had enough of impulsive action." Des Arc has a French name which means "the bow" or head in the river.

No. 55 Brings Fight From Church Group

By WICK TEMPLE
Associated Press Writer
Arkansans vote Nov. 3 on perhaps the most emotional and controversial issue come before them in modern times—a constitutional amendment to legalize casino gambling in Garland County. The campaign has been long and bitter. It is the climax of almost 100 years of illegal gambling in the resort city of Hot Springs and the closing of the games last March by Gov. Orval E. Faubus on mandate of the state House of Representatives. It has become a major issue in the gubernatorial campaign between Faubus and GOP candidate Winthrop Rockefeller. It has been the topic of thousands of sermons in churches across the state. There are dozens of arguments on both sides, but there are only two main ones: The Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce, which proposed the amendment, says there is going to be gambling in Hot Springs no matter what, and that it might as well be legalized and taxed. Not only that, legalization will bring in millions of tourist dollars and provide needed tax funds, the chamber says. Churches United Against Gambling, the main anti-gambling force, contends that gambling is morally wrong and that nothing good can come from something bad. The conclusions drawn by CUAG are that legalized gambling will attract mobsters to Arkansas, bleed middle and low income families, spread out to engulf other parts of the state, breed corruption in enforcement agencies and raise the state's crime rate. "If casino gambling is so good," they ask, "why does only one state (Nevada) have it?" Both Rockefeller and Faubus have promised to enforce the state's present anti-gambling laws if Amendment 55 is defeated. Some Hot Springs sources say—and this has crept into the reopened illegally if the amendment fails. Rockefeller has lashed Faubus for failing for nine years to keep a 1953 campaign promise that he would close gambling. The governor said the first mandate he had from the people on the subject was the resolution by the House suggesting that the anti-gambling law be enforced. Faubus ordered the casinos closed. They closed. The chamber of commerce had the amendment drawn up and quickly got the more than 30,000 signatures necessary to get it on the ballot. Church forces first attacked the ballot title in court, contending that it used words like wagering instead of betting. The Supreme Court ruled that the title should stand. The Amendment Provisions Just what would the amendment do? Gambling would be legalized in Garland County on a local option basis. The general election would be considered the local option election for the county. A Gaming Control Board consisting of five members, appointed by the governor, would be set up to administer the law. The attorney general would be the attorney for the board. The board would be all-powerful in issuing and revoking licenses. Members of the board, its agents and inspectors would have powers of peace officers. The board could license one casino for each 7,000 persons in Garland County. This would be five at the outset. There could never be more than 10 without further amendment. To get a license, a person must be over 21, a citizen of the Arkansas for 10 years. He U.S., and a citizen and resident cannot have any interest in any business outside of Arkansas. He must have no connection with a motel or hotel. He must have adequate financing. All partners, stockholders, directors, officers, managers and executives of corporations getting a gambling license would have to meet these qualifications. Anyone putting up the money for a casino also would have to meet them. Licenses would be good for three months and they would be renewed automatically if the operators complied with the law. Casinos would be taxed at the rate of four per cent of their first $500,000 gross take and 5 per cent of the rest of their gross take in each three-month period. The amendment reads: "The board shall prescribe the form of return to be filed to show the amount of such taxes, the manner of verifying the same, and such other rules and regulations as may be necessary to insure proper and full reporting of such taxes." In addition to the taxes, casinos would pay a $2,500 annual license fee if they have less than three games and $10,000 if they have more than three games. Slot machines would be taxed at $10 each per month. The city of Hot Springs and Garland County also would be able to tax the casinos. (The city has been doing this for years.) No person under age 21 would be allowed to gamble or loiter in the casinos. Decisions of the Gaming Control Board could be appealed to Garland Circuit Court and then to the Arkansas Supreme Court. Pro-Gambling Arguments The chamber of commerce says legal gambling would bring in millions of dollars in needed revenue and make Hot Springs a sort of Mid-America Monte Carlo for tourists (preferably rich) from all over North America. It also would bolster the tourist economy, the chamber argues, providing a gold mine of business for restaurants, service stations, motels and hotels, and their establishment serving the tourists. The chamber says legalized gambling would be cleaner than the illegal variety, and it could be enforced through the provisions of the amendment. Former Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry, who once tried to close the illegal Hot Springs casinos and was stopped by Garland Circuit Court order, went on television on behalf of the amendment. He said illegal gambling could not be stopped as long as local law enforcement authorities didn't want to stop it, and as long as the people wanted it. Anti-Gambling Arguments There has been no unanimity among churches. CUAG includes only Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Christian Churches and Assemblies of God. One Episcopal minister in Pine Bluff drew wide publicity when he said he was for legalizing gambling and added that he resented the methods used by CUAG to defeat the amendment. CUAG argues that any revenue raised by gambling will be offset by higher police costs, court costs, penitentiary costs and higher expenditure by government and private agencies for welfare purposes. It points to the crime rate of Nevada—2,990 offenses per 100,000 population last year compared to 648 per 100,000 for Arkansas, and it says legalized gambling is sure to attract "bookies, dope peddlers, prostitutes and others that are in evidence around any casino." CUAG says industrialists shy away from gambling areas. It says passage of the amendment would put a damper on Arkansas' industrial development. Arkansas doesn't need the gambling tourist, says a church brochure. "You run the risk releasing all manner of dangerous and uncontrollable influences." CUAG says gambling might spread to other areas in the state. "We are just fooling ourselves if we believe legal gambling will eliminate criminals," says CUAG president Dr. Ralph Phelps, president of Ouachita Baptist College. The Rebuttal The chamber contends that legalized gambling would not bring mobsters to Arkansas as it did to Las Vegas. The chamber points to stringent new federal laws which prohibit bringing gambling personnel or paraphernalia across state lines. The chamber has always said its gambling has been home-owned and operated. Schools for local clergymen have been held. The Vapors Club was dynamited in 1963 while such a school was under way. There were several injuries and the bombing was never solved. There is still speculation whether the bomb was the work of local thugs or out-of-state gamblers. Thirty-five states have some form of legalized gambling—from kitchen poker games in Texas to horse racing in many states to casino gambling in Nevada. Maryland has legal slot machines on a local option basis. New Hampshire has legalized a state lottery. Nevada took in $13.5 million in gambling revenues last year. New York—the nation's leader—took in $124.4 million, most of it on pari-mutuel betting. Pari-mutuel betting is already legal at Oaklawn Park horse race track in Hot Springs and at Southland Greyhound Track in West Memphis. The local option feature is an important arguing point for the Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce. Since gambling will be only in Garland County, why not let the people of Garland County choose whether they want it? The Rev. Sam Allen, executive secretary of the Arkansas Council of Churches, says this is a fallacious argument because Hot Springs gambling would touch other parts of Arkansas. "It spills over," he said. "People who should not gamble do, because it's there. And the criminal element spills over." At any rate, it is a choice for all of Arkansas to make next Tuesday. Churches United Against Gambling has promised that if the amendment is beaten it will see that present anti-gambling laws are enforced.

Italian Reds Reassured by Russians

By GERALD MILLER
ROME (AP) — The Kremlin has told Soviet Communist party workers that Nikita Khrushchev was ousted because he acted dictatorially and did a bad job besides, the left-wing Italian weekly L'Espresso reported today. L'Espresso said the report, written by Soviet Communist party Presidium member Mikhail Suslov, had been distributed to party workers throughout the Soviet Union. It had been rumored in Moscow earlier this week that such a report would be made public and that it would contain Suslov's denunciation at the Presidium meeting Oct. 14 which removed Khrushchev from command of the party. The report has not been made public in Moscow and L'Espresso did not say where it got its summary. Suslov's report, according to L'Espresso, accused Khrushchev of these failings: —He repeatedly violated the principles of collective leadership, displaying a typical "personality cult" attitudes incompatible with directives of the Soviet party congresses. —He launched and changed agricultural policies without adequate thought and preparation. —He switched allocated investments from one industrial sector to another, causing consumer industry to suffer through a lack of coherent development of economic plans. —He sent friends and relatives including his son-in-law Alexei Adzhubel, on foreign missions without consulting party officials. These emissaries had neither the right nor preparation to undertake the delicate tasks given them, and often the results did not correspond to Soviet interests. —The party Central Committee was told nothing of the outcome of Adzhubel's last mission, to Bonn and only learned from the Western press that he had formulated prospects on the German and Berlin questions unacceptable to the party. —During his own trip to Egypt in May, Khrushchev made President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Vice President Abdel Hakim Amer Heroes of the Soviet Union without the required preliminary approval of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet, the Soviet parliament. —Khrushchev made an ostentatious show of support for India during a particularly delicate time of frontier controversy between India and Red China. Such help was in line with Moscow policy, but the way it was done worsened the situation. —Khrushchev's recent declaration that the Soviet Union has a weapon of total destruction — which Khrushchev later denied he had made — caused alarm and confusion and was a significant example of his arbitrary way of acting without regard for the opinions of others.

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Dinah Shore's first daytime "special for women," on ABC Wednesday turned out to be more of a soap opera with "Perry Mason" overtones than a serious treatment of the problem of the molestation of children. The ho-long story, called "Child in Danger," was a routine courtroom drama about the trial of a haggard fellow charged with hurling a 10-year-old girl in a park playground. Things looked pretty bad for him when even his lawyer — played Nina Foch — was repelled by the ugly crime. In the end it turned out he was innocent and there was a courtroom confession by the girl who admitted she had made up the story to avoid a spanking for tearing a new dress. The worried fellow, it turned out, was acting that way because he felt he was responsible for his own 10-year-old daughter's death in an automobile accident. Along this familiar trail assorted characters, including the lawyer and the judge, took time out to deliver lectures to parents about warning and educating their children. A real psychiatrist explained very broadly in lay terms the drive that turned men into molesters. Miss Shore suggested that parents write to the FBI for special coloring books which would explain the danger to children. Despite the billing and the trimmings, however, it was unappetizing entertainment. Sammie Tong's tragic death in Hollywood Tuesday came, according to ABC sources, after producers of the comedy series, "Mickey," had completed all of 17 programs originally contracted for. The series, starring Mickey Rooney as a resort hotel owner and Tong as the wily manager, took off to a limp start and wound up in the 76th position in the latest Nielsen report with a 15-2 rating.

Steel Profits Rekindle Price Debate

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Corp. got ready today to toss its latest profit figures into the rekindled debate over steel prices. Following custom, the second largest steel reducer planned to report third quarter and nine-month results at the close of the New York Stock Exchange. The steel price argument revived on new word that President Johnson would take a skeptical view of any major steel price rise. That word was considered a rime factor in a stock market dip Wednesday. Actually, the President said Aug. 8 when price rise talk was contrary way of acting without regard for the opinions of others.

in the air that he would look upon any markup with "very serious concern" and urged steel executives to act responsibly. But the subject is touchy, fraught with memories of the President John F. Kennedy steel industry controversy of April 1962. At that time the industry rescinded a price increase after Kennedy objected strongly. In Los Angeles, President Johnson was said to have figured that nine-month steel profits were up 29 per cent — although some calculations were about 20 per cent. Leading steel executives have contended that despite a good upturn in earnings this year from previously depressed levels, the rate of return on invested capital still lags well below the average of all manufacturing industries. The remedy, they say, is a price rise, probably on selected big tonnage finished steel products like sheets, string and plates. Labor contracts between the steel companies and the United Steelworkers of America expire next June. Wage negotiations can begin Jan. 1. Johnson reportedly is keeping in close touch with preliminary moves toward contract changes, which could have an important effect on prices. Four of the industry's "Big Eight" companies reported record high earnings for the first nine months of the year, and nearly all sizable producers reported gains. The industry giant, U.S. Steel Corp., seemed headed for a lackluster earnings year alongside the boom results of the mid-1950s.

perienced in New Orleans and the Coastal areas, when struck by the hurricanes. Mrs. Cobb stressed the very true fact that it is not enough to prepare for war, but rather we should prepare for better understanding of our fellowman, for goodwill, and for the relief of human sufferings.

The District Civil Defense Headquarters is located at Conway, Arkansas, and the Local Chairman (county) is Judge Orie Byers. Mrs. Cobb is the Auxiliary Chairman, and advises anyone interested in Civil Defense to write to the District of County Chairman to receive pamphlets published for the purpose of Civil Defense education.

The Aux. members brought pillowcases to be sent to the Gift shop at the Veteran's Hospital. The November meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Cecil Weaver.

The Annual Poppy Sale will be held on Saturday Nov. 7th. The public is urged to remember the purpose of this work.

All About Dogs

Editor The Star: In regard to dogs in Hope—

It would be nice if people who have dogs and really care for them would put them on a leash. I have four boys and a girl. The boys have a dog. He has always been on a leash.

We live on North Main and have a wonderful neighbor, Mrs. Whitten. When we go to town we have to walk, leaving North Main and crossing over to Elm Street to get to town — because the dogs on North Main try to bite everyone who walks down the street.

The man who has the most dogs on this street will stand and watch the dogs try to bite ladies and children and never call them back. I have had the dogs try to bite me and the owner just looked at his dogs. I have two boys in school who walk 12 blocks to keep from going up North Main.

Who do we turn to for help? If we call the city police, they only laugh at us. I sincerely think something could be done about the dogs. North Main is the only street in Hope that is dangerous for children to walk the street because of dogs.

MRS. EVELYN HAGGARD

722 N. MAIN ST.
City

Editor's Note: Upon receipt of the foregoing letter I telephoned City Manager Garland Medders to refresh my memory on city ordinances with regard to dogs running at large.

Mr. Medders says the only ordinance in effect in Hope is one requiring dogs to be vaccinated. He disclosed however, that the city is building a dog pen in Fair Park and will soon begin semi-annual drives to gather up unvaccinated strays and destroy them.

While on the phone Mr. Medders and your editor discussed the regulation of dogs at large in other cities. Little Rock after much debate finally passed an ordinance requiring dogs to be kept on leash when away from home. But there was such a vehement outcry from dog owners that the ordinance was never enforced. Dog owners, it appears contend that a leash law or any ordinance prohibiting dogs from running at large is unfair to children who want pets.

But a dog is personal property. And the owner of such property is responsible for it under English common law, written or unwritten.

Mrs. Haggard asks where she can go for help. All she has to do is to swear out a warrant against the owner of menacing dogs. Police feel imposed upon

Two More Killed in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Air Force pilots were killed today in the crash of their A1E Skyraider on a training mission 12 miles northeast of Saigon, a U.S. military spokesman said.

The deaths brought to 96 the total number of Americans killed in South Viet Nam in non-combat accidents since December 1961, the spokesman said. A total of 214 have died in combat.

by people who complain but do nothing. But a duly sworn-out warrant is something they have to act on. Mrs. Haggard has had the courage to write this letter and publish her name and address — her next step is to notify the dogs' owner, and if he doesn't get his dogs off the street promptly swear out a warrant against him.

This is an old argument, and this rejoinder is written by an old hand at handling dogs. Your editor has two of his own. But they are fenced in, and they don't bark. The reason they don't bark is that I get up all hours of the night and silence any barking with a bedroom slipper. When I got the second dog I had a little trouble on this score. She barked, and when I went out to spank her the old dog was hiding in the doghouse. The second time, both were in the doghouse — and that was that.

Dogs are like people. Some are good neighbors — and some aren't. But unlike people, dogs have masters, who are responsible for their good conduct. People come ahead of dogs every time. Otherwise none of us could keep a dog at all.

Our editorial note has run long — but of talking about dogs there is no end.

Third Party Doesn't Want Left Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph B. Lightburn doesn't want to be counted out of the residential race.

"If it goes into the House, they wouldn't have to put Johnson or Goldwater in. They could easily put me in," says Lightburn, the presidential candidate for the Constitution party.

E. Harold Munn, however, takes what he considers a realistic view.

"Of course, there's no possibility of it," he says, regarding his chances next Tuesday. Munn is running on the Prohibition party ticket.

Lightburn and Munn are among at least eight minor seeking write-in ballots next Tuesday.

Each has his cause; few have much hope. In 1960, the minor party nominees polled less than one of every 200 votes.

For Lightburn, a Jane Lew, W. Va., merchant and a hurried substitute when Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace declined to accept the Constitution party designation, the cause is "a return to constitutionalism."

For the States Rights party, it is as vice-presidential candidate J. B. Stoner of Birmingham put it — to "repeal all civil rights laws."

And for Henry Krajewski, the Secaucus, N.J., farmer turned tavern keeper, it is "to run against two millionaires as a poor man's representative."

Two of the minor parties are Socialist — the Marxist Socialist Labor Party whose candidate, Eric Hass of New York, is mak-

Conway League Wants FBI Too

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — Members of the Conway County Better Government League sent a telegram Wednesday asking federal supervision and investigation of the upcoming election.

Sheriff Martin Hawkins sent a telegram Tuesday to Nicholas del. Katzenbach asking that agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation police county polling places.

Pat Calhoun, chairman of the league, and R. J. Mobley, secretary, sent their telegram to U.S. Atty. Robert D. Smith Jr. at Little Rock.

"We want to join Sheriff Hawkins' appeal for marshals or FBI agents, one for every election precinct, on election day," they said.

The telegram asked that the FBI agents also investigate pre-election activity and stay around after the election to keep an eye on proceedings.

ing his fourth race of President; and the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party led by Mississil-born Clifton Deberry, now of New York.

Besides Krajewski, at least two candidates are running solely on a write-in basis: Louis E. Jaekel of Lancaster, S.C., the American Party candidate, and Bisho Homer Tomlinson of the Church of God, founder of the Theocratic party.

Some of the candidates are campaigning for votes, Munn, a Hilldale, Mich., college professor, has made speeches from coast to coast and Lightburn has made a 25-city tour of Texas.

Others, like segregationist John Kaser, who heads the States Rights party ticket, have stayed at home.

Former Court Justice Burton Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Supreme Court Justice, Harold H. Burton is dead at 76. He died at George Washington University Hospital Wednesday from a combination of illnesses. Failing health had forced him to retire from the Supreme Court six years ago.

Burton, while serving as a Republican senator from Ohio, was appointed to the court in 1945 by Democratic President Harry S. Truman. They had been close friends when Truman was a senator from Missouri.

In one of his most significant opinions, Burton issued the ruling that outlawed racial segregation on railroad dining cars. It was the first in a line of major rulings by the Supreme Court on civil rights.

Burton began his political career as an Ohio state legislator in 1928 and became mayor of Cleveland in 1935, running as an independent. Republican opposed to the regular party leaders. In 1940, he had to buck the Republican state organization to win the nomination for senator. He then won the election.

He was near the end of his first term as senator when Truman appointed him to the Supreme Court. Truman broke precedent by attending the court session in which Burton was sworn in. The resident said he wanted to pay tribute to a long-time personal friend.

Two memorial services will be held for Burton, the first at All Souls Unitarian church in Washington, the second at the First Unitarian church in Cleveland.

Controversial Film Is Gone

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - A showing of the controversial Republican campaign film "Choice" to party workers here probably will be the only one. Dabbs Sullivan Jr., Arkansas campaign chairman for Sen. Barry Goldwater, said Wednesday. Goldwater condemned sections of the film as "racist" and

LBJ Appears to Have New York Support

EDITOR'S NOTE - Victory in New York State is a giant step toward capturing the White House, and such a victory clearly is in prospect for President Johnson. Here's a report on the political situation in the Empire State, the first of six articles on big vote states.

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK (AP) - President Johnson is riding the election trail in New York State as high, wide and handsomely as if he were roaming the range of his native Texas.

All signs point to Johnson carrying the 43 electoral votes of the populous industrial state by a lopsided margin, barring any upset that is nowhere in evidence at this point.

Some Republican leaders have estimated privately that the President may take the state by a million to 1.5 million votes over Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the GOP presidential nominee.

Goldwater appears to be getting scant organization help.

Key GOP leaders in the state, differing with Goldwater's political philosophy, have engaged in what amounts to a campaign of silence on the presidential race.

A number of newspapers that normally support Republican candidates editorially have announced for Johnson.

Polls indicate that a substantial number of voters who ordinarily vote Republican take the same view.

Because the outcome of the presidential race here is largely regarded as a foregone conclusion, New York political interest has centered largely on a colorful race for the U.S. Senate.

Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating is running for re-election against the challenge of Robert F. Kennedy, former U.S. attorney general and brother of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Their contest appears to be much closer than the presidential balloting.

The New York Daily News reported last Saturday that its statewide presidential poll put the halfway point showed Johnson leading Goldwater by about 3-1, and Kennedy leading Keating about 4-3.

The News said Johnson at that time had collected 13,139 straw votes to 4,111 for Goldwater, or 76.2 per cent to 23.8 per cent.

The newspaper has noted that "in presidential polling going back 36 years we've had only one outright error, in 1928, our first year, before present balloting methods were refined."

The key GOP leaders lukewarm toward Goldwater include Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who competed against him for the nomination; the state's two senators, Keating and Jacob K. Javits, and Rep. John V. Lindsay of Manhattan's "Silk Stocking" 17th District.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - The nagging question when you see Jane Fonda these days is: Is she becoming another Brigitte Bardot?

Jane's honey-hued locks swirl as hip-length as Brigitte's. Her full lips have a naturally pouty look.

She has been the toast of France for nearly two years.

Even her best beau is Brigitte's ex-husband, Roger Vadim, one of France's top, young new wave film makers.

At 26, Jane is four years younger than Brigitte, who turned 30 this year.

"I don't think I've changed much," says Jane, back in Hollywood to make her first Western, "Cat Ballou." "About the only thing I enjoy now I didn't enjoy two years ago is traveling."

Then her eyes light up as she tells about a recent trip to Moscow.

But basically, Jane is still Jane - an exotic product of childhood as the daughter of a Hollywood star, of Eastern private school training, and of several blossoming years as a star in her own right.

There's another similarity to the old Jane. She still goes for Svengali-like men she can lean on.

Two years ago, it was young Greek director Andreas Voutsinas. Jane was making "Period of Adjustment" at MGM and going over her lines after work in her Malibu beach house with Andreas.

"He's always around," a co-worker complained at the time, "and she listens to everything he says."

Sometime during the last two years, Andreas faded out of the picture.

Roger is almost always around, too - when he isn't commuting to Paris from Hollywood.

Jane already has appeared in a remake of "La Ronde" which Vadim made in France.

When she finishes "Cat Ballou," Jane and Roger will fly back to France, where she bought a farm house outside Paris near Versailles four months ago.

Will she live there as Jane Fonda or Mrs. Roger Vadim?

"The only roommate I'm going to have is an otter," says Jane. "I'm not going to settle down for a long time."

Presidential Race Likely Settled Now

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) - One of the most unpleasant presidential races in history moves toward the election only eight days off with nothing to indicate the candidates can say anything now to affect the results.

This campaign has been more distinguished for heat than for slogans than logic, more memorable for name-calling than discussion and for generalities than gentility.

One pre-campaign prediction turned out early to be true: that it would be rough, perhaps one of the roughest. Now near the end come cries of pain from both sides.

John M. Bailey, the Democratic national chairman, has appealed directly to Sen. Barry Goldwater to end what Bailey called the flow of "venom and filth the Republican party has injected" into the campaign.

Dean Burch, the Republican national chairman, filed a complaint with the bipartisan Fair Campaign Practices Committee charging the Democrats are waging a "campaign of fear, smear, cover-up, news suppression, arm-twisting."

This was after Bruce L. Fekner, executive director of the committee, had a few words himself to say. He said this was the "bitterest or most vicious campaign that I've ever observed or, for that matter, heard tell of."

The committee's magazine, Fair Comment, added: "The use of guilt by association, fraudulent documentation, cruel and unusual punishment of whipping boys and evasions of differences may be setting a record" this year.

Yet, in this campaign, for a change, the basic difference between the two presidential candidates was known to all before the campaign began.

For a generation at least the differences between Democrats and Republicans - in their attitude toward life in America and the responsibilities of government - were so small that campaign after campaign was a personality contest.

Not this year. From the beginning there was this clear distinction between President Johnson and Goldwater: Johnson stood for the welfare state, Goldwater for real conservatism.

As a result, obvious enough, the choice the voters make Election Day will shape the direction of America for years to come.

Since this basic difference between Johnson and Goldwater was clear before the campaign began, the campaign didn't add much on this score. If that had been all the voters could have chosen early and forgotten the campaign.

It wasn't. The gulf between the two viewpoints could not be considered separately from a question of equally fundamental importance:

Which of the two men could be trusted to handle the presidency better with all that mean

American, Russians Get Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM (AP) - Two Russians and an American were awarded the 1964 Nobel Prize for physics jointly today for their contributions to the maser light beam. They are Professors Nikolay Basov and Aleksander Prochorov of Moscow, and Charles Hard Townes of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Townes, 49, and a native of Greenville, S.C., will receive half of the $5,123 prize for his research on the maser beam. Maser is the short name for molecular amplification by stimulated emission of radiation - from radio waves to light.

Basov, 42, and Prochorov, 48, will share the other half of the prize. They are members of the Lebedev Institute for Physics of the Soviet Academy of Science.

The Nobel Committee of the Royal Swedish Academy of Science, which chooses the physics winner, cited the Soviet-

Thinks Bobcats Will Edge Out Camden 7-0

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer

This seems to us to be the week of upsets. The schedule, in a half-dozen instances, matches teams so nearly even physically and so uneven in the ratings that a rash of surprises wouldn't be well, surprising.

Getting into this upset mood we've established, we're hasty to get on with things. We ticked off the right selection most of the time last week for a .760 showing.

This may take some of the wind out of us:

Conway 7, Little Rock Central 0. Hard, fast, eager football.

Fort Smith Northside 14, Little Rock Hall 13. The Grizzlies have the better defense, the Warriors the better offense. It should be interesting.

El Dorado 3, Texarkana 7. This one is tonight.

Newport 7, Jonesboro 0. But the Hurricane wants this one badly.

Rogers 20, Springdale 14. A crowd-pleasing game with lots of action.

Fayetteville 24, Sylvan Hills 12. Bob Gardner's rambling.

Bluffville 14, Hot Springs. The Trojans are in gear now, but not quite strong enough.

Now Class AA:

Van Buren 13, Bentonville 0. Harrison 7, Siloam Springs 0. Mountain Home 13, Huntsville 0.

DeWitt 14, Brinkley 7. Forrest City 13, Stuttgart 12. Helena 12, Wynne 0.

Paragould 4, Pocahontas 6. West Memphis 6, Munford, Tenn., 0.

Benton 14, Jacksonville 7. Cabot 7, Beebe 0.

Mabelvale 0, Morrilton 6. Russellville 14, Searcy 6.

Malvern 20, Sheridan 6. Watson Chapel 14, Monticello 13.

Gurdon 12, Arkadelphia 7. Hope 7, Camden 0.

Smackover 6, Crossett 0. Magnolia 14, Camden Fairview 7.

Warren 10, Fordyce 6.

Meredith Is Pro Player of the Week

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Meredith, the Dallas Cowboy quarterback who has been handicapped by injuries all season finally shook off his aches and pains in the St. Louis game Sunday with a performance that knocked the Cardinals out of a first place tie.

On the strength of his fine job on the Cardinals, who were heavily favored, Meredith earned recognition as The Associated Press' Player of the Week in the National Football League.

The 26-year-old former Southern Methodist passer who has been trying to make it big for five years completed 12 of 19 passes for 160 yards and one touchdown in an upset 31-3 Dallas victory at St. Louis.

In the closing minutes of the first period, Meredith completed a 36-yard pass to Frank Clarke who was nailed on the four. Don Perkins eventually took it in. Just before the first half ended, Meredith completed five passes for 73 yards including an 18-yarder to Clarke who wound up with seven catches for 103 yards. Willie Crenshaw, Card rookie fullback, gained 71 yards in 14 runs.

Tommy Mason's running for the Minnesota Vikings in their 27-22 decision over San Francisco accounted for 83 yards and one touchdown in 20 carries. One touchdown in 20 carries.

Rookie Les Josephson, laying fullback for the injured Dick Bass, sprinted 53 yards for a Los Angeles touchdown and gained 90 yards in 10 carries in the Rams' 27-17 upset of Green Bay.

Josephson was acquired from Dallas in a deal earlier in the year. Rookie Bruce Gossett of the Rams continued to impress by kicking two more field goals, making it a total of 11 in 4 attempts.

Camden Shows Signs of Being a Rugged Crew

By CARTER HARDAGE

One of the roughest teams that the Bobcats have faced to date will be Friday night's menu at Hammond Stadium: the Camden Panthers (with all the trimmings).

Of course, just what the trimmings will be is another question.

The Panthers are a top-notch ball club. They have a strong, smooching running attack, with good breakaway threat, and an excellent passing game.

Coach Freddie Glaze, speaking for Coach Howard, warned that "Camden is a potent ball club. They looked especially good against Warren last week during the second half. They're capable of beating anyone in the conference."

The Panthers use a lot of pro-sets, with flanker backs and split-ends. As soon as they get the defense spread out, they start running straight at them. Camden holds down the fourth spot in 4AA this week, with their 2-2-1 record. They have lost to Malvern, 26-7, and last week to Warren 21-14.

The Lumberjacks were unable to drive for a TD against Camden. All three of their tallies came on big plays. Camden drove the length of the field twice, once behind a running attack and the other exclusively from the air.

A loss for Hope at this time would gum up the works pretty well and throw the league into a three-way rat race.

Here are the probable starting line-ups, featuring offense for Camden and the defensive line-up for Hope.

Offensive changes are Buddy Jordan at quarterback and Eddie Aslin at right end. Richard Lang is uncertain at tackle. He may be unable to play.

Says Porkers Are Ready Mentally

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles said Wednesday his fourth-ranked Arkansas Razorbacks are mentally ready for Texas A&M.

The Porkers meet the Aggies Saturday night in College Station, Tex.

But Broyles said the A&M offense is troublesome.

"Their offense is a lot like ours," he said. "With split ends, flankerbacks and wide sets, it's the type of offense designed to give everybody trouble."

End Jerry Lamb will suit out for the A&M game, Broyles said, and he may play. Lamb was sidelined by a muscle pull in the 14-13 upset of Texas.

Navy Hopes to Derail Notre Dame

By HERB THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Navy will bank heavily on an improved Roger Staubach to derail Notre Dame's fast rolling football express in Philadelphia Saturday.

But the Middle quarterback is still not fully up to the scrambling 1963 form which won him the Heisman Trophy as college player of the year. Also a number of teammates, including fullback Pat Donnelly, are still sidelined with injuries.

How then can Navy hope to succeed?

"We're going to have to lay over our heads and have all the good bounces go our way," Coach Wayne Hardin said Wednesday, falling back on the law of averages.

He said the Middies have been dropping up to seven passes a game and committing other mistakes which might have made a big difference in the 2-3-1 record they'll take against the undefeated, second-ranked Irish.

"We're due for one of those days when we might make a yard running and might catch a pass or two," Hardin said.

The Navy coach said Staubach, who suffered an ankle injury in Navy's opening game and hasn't been able to combine a running effort with his passing, is now back to about 85 percent form compared to 70 percent in Navy's 14-14 tie with Pitt last week.

Coach Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame agreed in a telephone interview from South Bend, Ind., that "As Staubach goes, so goes Navy."

He said it has been quite noticeable in films that Staubach hasn't been able to scramble enough to hit his secondary receivers and that this has been the principal difference in Navy's attack this year.

Winning Series Worth $3,312 More to Cards

NEW YORK (AP) — The difference between winning and losing the World Series was $3,312.90. That was the spread between each St. Louis Cardinal winning share of $8,622.19 and each full New York Yankee losing share of $5,309.29.

The official shares, announced Wednesday by Commissioner Ford Frick, had few surprises. As had been reported previously, Mel Stottlemyre, Yankee rookie pitcher, got a full share, and Pete Ramos, acquired from Cleveland in early September, drew one-half share of $2,654.65.

The fact that Harry Bright, reserve infielder who was sent to Richmond in mid-May, also got $2,654.65 was interesting.

The Cardinals voted three-fourths of a share to Barney Schultz, the 38-year-old knuckle ball pitcher who helped them so much down the stretch in the National League race. Schultz got $4,666.64.

So did Dal Maxvill, the utility infielder who played second base all during the Series in place of the injured Julian Javier.

The winning and losing shares were far short of the records set last year when the Los Angeles Dodgers got $12,794 each for winning and the Yanks drew $7,874.32 in site of their four straight defeats.

The difference between the size of the Dodger park and the 30,000 plus capacity of Busch Stadium in St. Louis made the difference in money.

For the first time the fifth-place teams participated in the player pool. Commissioner Frick estimated this cut about $100 off the shares of the Cards and Yanks.

Fifth place was worth $218.81 for each full share with the Milwaukee Braves and $195.62

Another Big Week in SW Conference

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles says that the Texas Aggies' offense will present a problem to his Razorbacks this Saturday at College Station because "their offense is a lot like ours."

Broyles went on to explain that the Aggie offense was similar because it utilized "split ends, flankerbacks and wide sets," which he said is the type of offense that is designed "to give everybody trouble."

The Arkansas coach did not continue his dissertation, however, to point out that the similarity of the offenses of the two schools fails to be reflected in the record books.

To date the Razorback offense has piled up 122 points against its foes' 57 to give Arkansas a perfect 6-0 season record, a 3-0 Southwest Conference mark and the No. 4 spot in the national ratings. On the other hand, the Aggie offense has managed to generate 50 points—exactly half of the 100 scored by opponents—for a 0-6 season record and a 0-3 conference mark.

Broyles had his Razorbacks working extra time Wednesday on kickoff returns because, he said, it had been slighted during their pre-season work.

Meanwhile at College Station, the Aggies spent equal time working on offense and defense in an effort to make as many points as possible Saturday while trying to keep Arkansas from making as many points as the Razorbacks usually make. There was no comment from the A&M coaching staff concerning the similarity in the offense employed by the two teams.

The Texas Longhorns, now ranked No. 6 nationally after beating ing toppled from the No. 1 spot by Arkansas, went through a several hour drill in preparation for their Saturday game with the Southern Methodist University Mustangs. Injuries will keep Phil Harris, Diron Calvert, Timmy Doerr and Kim Gaylor out of the SMU game.

The Mustangs will be taking only a 1-4 season mark and a 2-0 conference record to Austin but they will have six co-captains—all of the seniors on the SMU squad—for the Longhorn game. In Wednesday's practice, Billy Bob Stewart, who made 30 tackles in the Texas Tech game, suffered a shoulder injury but he is expected to be back in shape by Saturday.

Rice, which along with Texas and Baylor will be fighting to stay in contention for the conference crown this weekend, is expected to be at top strength when it is host to Texas Tech at Houston Saturday. Quarterback Walter McReynolds, who had been nursing an ankle injury, showed improvement in Wednesday's practice and end Howard Ayers, who had a shoulder injury, is expected to play Saturday.

The Texas Tech Red Raiders Wednesday staged a drill that Coach J. T. King called "a spirited workout." All players who took part in Tech's 12-0 victory over SMU last week are due to suit out for Saturday's regionally televised game with Rice. In addition, guard Ronnie Pack, who has been out with injuries since the second game of the season, is expected to see action against Rice.

The Texas Christian Horned Frogs were completely free of injuries Wednesday as they drilled for Saturday's game with Baylor. TCU Coach Abe Martin said he was going to wait until Saturday before deciding whether Randy Howard or Kent Nix would start at quarterback against the Bears.

Baylor may be without the services of center Ernest Erickson, guard Dwight Hood, and flanker Paul Bection at Fort Worth Saturday because of injuries. The Bears gave their pass offense a thorough review Wednesday, but also put in a lot of time on kick coverage and goal-line defense.

Extension of Soil Bank Land Grazing

The county ASCS office has been advised that the final date for grazing and haying on Soil Bank land has been extended to December 31, 1964. However, contract holders are reminded that it will be necessary to obtain permission of the county if they wish to continue grazing or cut additional hay between November 1 and January 1, 1965.

Producers who do not desire to have the grazing period extended should get their livestock off any acreage for which permission to graze or harvest has previously been granted, by no later than November 1, 1964. Failure to do so could result in a violation of their contracts and therefore may result in loss of the entire annual payment for 1964.

Remember that interested farmers desiring to extend the grazing or haying period to January 1, 1965 should contact the ASCS office immediately but in no case later than October 31.

Farmers holding prior approvals for conservation practices expiring on November 1 should report performance to the county ASCS office by that date. Program regulations provide that all outstanding approvals must be cancelled if not properly reported by the expiration date.

In addition farmers holding approvals for winter cover crops and legumes should call for their purchase orders by no later than Friday October 30, if they are to meet the seeding deadline of November 1. The planting dates cannot be extended.

Newspaper Started Back in 1764

By ANGELO NATALE

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The first issue of Hartford's first newspaper, a four-page affair turned out on a hand press, was published on Oct. 29, 1764 — 200 years ago Tuesday.

The newspaper that Thomas Green started now claims to be the oldest of continuous publication in the nation — the Hartford Courant.

"Was it not for the press," Green wrote at the start of the first issue of what was then called the Connecticut Courant, "we should be left almost entirely ignorant of all those noble sentiments which the Antients (sic) were endo'd with."

He said the Courant would be published each Monday with "due encouragement."

The Hartford Courant is in the midst of a 200th anniversary celebration that looks back over a period covering America's entire history as a free nation.

In its infant days, as a weekly publication, the Courant was printed on wrapping paper at times when nothing else was available.

Green came to Hartford and started the Courant when he was 29, having left a job as manager of the New York printing firm.

His plant was a room above a barbershop in a small wooden building on Main Street. Hartford itself was little more than a country town with some shops and homes near the river front.

Green eventually took in a partner, Ebenezer Watson, and then left the Courant, long before its most serious crisis—a fire that wrecked its paper mill during the Revolutionary War.

The mill was destroyed in 1777, while the Courant was being run by Watson's widow Hannah. He had died of smallpox earlier that year.

Paper was in short supply and British ships blocked all imports, so Mrs. Watson turned to the Connecticut Legislature for a loan to rebuild the paper mill.

The legislature approved a statewide lottery of 6,000 tickets at $6 each. Prizes totaling $31,000 were given out, and the remaining $5,000 went to rebuild the mill. Until the mill was back in operation, Mrs. Watson put out the Courant on whatever paper could be found, and did not miss an issue.

In 1836 — almost six decades after the Widow Watson's fight for the paper's survival — John L. Boswell purchased the Connecticut Courant. A year later he started a daily newspaper — the Hartford Courant — but continued the Connecticut Courant as a weekly for "our country readers."

The weekly edition consisted of stories that appeared during the week in the daily edition. In 1914, the weekly Connecticut Courant was discontinued.

Dean Often Mistaken for Student

By MARC HAMBURGER

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — "What are you majoring in?" a Vanderbilt student asked the slight, tweed-clad man at a school reception.

"I've been graduated," replied Sidney Boutwell.

"Oh, what are you doing now?"

"I work for Vanderbilt," replied Boutwell. "I'm dean of men."

Boutwell has grown accustomed to such questions in the three years he has overseen the more than 2,000 undergraduate men at the university.

There was the time he attended a weekend symposium at a Virginia girls' school — A panel moderator mistook him for a student delegate whose first name was Dean.

Moments of uneasiness followed for the Vanderbilt delegation until the young dean rose to point out the error.

"My name is Sidney Boutwell," he said, "and I am the dean of men."

On another occasion, he was attending a national interfraternity conference in New York.

A Vanderbilt undergraduate voiced objection to a new regube satisfactory all around. Gordon Walker plans to meet with West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder in mid-November.

Gordon Walker conferred here with President Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other officials.

Rusk said after the 45-minute meeting with the President that Gordon Walker's visit to Washington — two weeks after the new Labor government took over in London — had been "extremely valuable."

"We're off to a very fine start," Rusk said. Gordon Walker agreed.

lation imposed on fraternities. Afterward the student was standing with Boutwell when the dean of another school walked up.

"You know, I'm in complete agreement with your position," he said to the pair, "and you can tell that dean of yours I said so."

The incident in New York was unusual in no respect. Vanderbilt students rarely find themselves in disagreement with Boutwell.

"Youth, that always lurked as a major potential handicap, turned out to my advantage," he says.

Boutwell, 30, has a long way to go before he fills the image of the stern, balding pedagogue who usually presides over the life of young collegians. The 130-pound, 5-foot-5 bachelor dean wears a size 36 short suit and buys his clothes from the campus haberdasher.

A Vanderbilt graduate, Boutwell found himself in student counselor of a model freshman dormitory. At 27, he became the youngest dean of a major university in the United States.

Mildmannered and highly fluent, Boutwell is a liberal

Few Families Remain on Guantanamo

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly half the American women and children living at Guantaamong deans of Southern universities.

"I believe in a maximum of student self-government," he says.

"There must be opportunities for students with initiative to assume individual responsibility. With the energy of these students channeled in the right direction, the college experience is vibrant, taking on a whole new dimension."

There are times when the dean's office must step in to handle certain situations. The undergraduate fraternity man at New York referred to one such occurrence.

"When a fraternity or individual elects to do nothing in a situation that warrants some action, then, in effect, that person or group has asked for university authority to step in and dictate what to do," he says.

namo when Cuba shut off the naval base's water supply last winter have returned to the United States, the Navy reported today.

The U.S. family population of Guantanamo totaled 1,747 as of Oct. 1. Last February it stood at 2,984. All dependents are expected to be gone by February 1966.

Gradual removal of dependents of American naval and civilian personnel was ordered Feb. 11 as one of a number of measures designed to make the base self-sufficient.

Several days earlier Fidel Castro shut off Guantanamo's fresh water source in retaliation for U.S. seizure of some Cuban fishermen who had strayed into American waters. Less than a month later, Castro offered to turn the water back on but the United States spurned that offer.

To make the base independent of outside water sources, the government ordered construction of three plants for converting salt water to fresh, with a daily output of 2.2 million gallons.

Two of the three plants have been finished and are producing 1.5 million gallons of water, the Navy said. The third plant is on schedule and due to be in business in mid-December.

As a result, Navy tankers which had been shuttling back and forth between Florida and the Guantanamo base for seven months have been relieved. In all, they hauled more than 293 million gallons of fresh water to the base.

Families leave the base as their menfolk finish two-year tour periods. New men are sent to Guantanamo on one-year tours, without their wives and children.

The military population of the base is 4,125 men, plus 154 U.S. civilian workers.

To keep morale from slipping, the Navy said it is expected that married men sent to the base without their families "will be able to return to the States once during their tour for leave."

"Extensive plans are in the mill for Christmas leave," the Navy said. "Single men will also be given leave in the States or in Jamaica."

The number of Cuban workers coming onto the base each day and returning home to Castro territory at night has been reduced by about two-thirds from the 1,800 total at the time of the water cutoff.

"DEAR ABBY"

ONE SMALL VOICE!

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: Although I read your column regularly, I missed your letter criticizing the clergyman for asking the prospective bride if she were pregnant or not. However, if the letters which appeared from some clergymen today are representative of the Protestant clergy, I am ashamed to be numbered among them. Any clergyman who performs 556 marriages in one year, unless he has a congregation of 5000 or more members, is not a clergyman, but an operator of a marriage mill, and can expect the abnormality he reports. I am aware, of course, that some brides are pregnant. But the number of brides who are NOT pregnant is so far in the majority that a clergyman can assume that she is not. Neither I, nor any pastor of my acquaintance has ever felt the necessity to ask a bride routinely if she is pregnant. Should I be the only one to uphold your right to criticize the clergyman for having asked that question, please let me know so I can update my conscience. Sincerely yours,

REVEREND D.

Dear Reverend D.: No need to update your conscience. It is as modern as tomorrow. Because so many more people wrote at first to say, "Shame on you," than "Good for you," I pulled in my claws. But in the final tabulation, more readers agreed with you.

Dear Abby: I wonder how many women are not on speaking terms with their daughters and daughters-in-law because they had the nerve to say NO as I did when asked to baby-sit with my grandchildren? This generation of grandchildren is wild and uncontrollable, and it is an exhausting job to run after them. Well, I'm too old for that sort of nonsense, and I said so. I refuse to buy my children's affection by looking after THEIR children while they do all the things I would like to have done but couldn't because I was too busy raising THEM.

PHILADELPHIAN

Dear Abby: I am at my wits' end trying to decide how to handle this problem. I have a cousin who is 50, unmarried, and employed by a well-known religious organization. She lives in a large city and comes to visit me every few months for a week-end. She was always quite careless about her person, but each time she visits me she's worse. She has been here during the hottest spells without taking a bath once! I have hinted that we have plenty of hot water, but I got nowhere. When she leaves, the room she occupied smells to high heaven. It nearly kills me to have such a sloppy, dirty creature in my home. And I know it isn't fair to my family. She has always been one of my favorite relatives, but I can't take any more of this. What can I do without hurting her feelings?

COUNTRY COUSIN

Dear Cousin: Forget her feelings and think of her future. One of these days she'll lose her job unless someone tells her how offensive her carelessness is. If you truly like her, for HER sake, tell her.

Dear Abby: Please help me in my crusade against companies that provide their customers with a return envelope marked, "PLACE STAMP HERE"

Says Absentee Ballots Are Mishandled

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Election Research Council Inc. said Saturday that there is widespread mishandling of absentee ballots and applications for absentee ballots in many of the state's counties.

John H. Haley, chairman of the council, said his group had received reports from about a dozen counties and said as these are verified and studied they will be made public.

"We are appalled at the manner in which absentee ballots and absentee ballot applications are being handled in many counties," Haley said in a news release. "The most repulsive fact uncovered is that some persons listed in the 1964 poll books have been dead longer than a year."

Haley said 700 absentee ballots were mailed out in Garland County early this week and said not a single application was checked to see whether the voter was qualified.

Of the 700 applications, Haley said, more than 200 were unsigned, quite a large number were in letter form rather than on an official application form and some were on a mimeographed form made up by the county clerk's each year which allows someone other than the voter to sign.

"This," Haley said, "Of course, is illegal and voids the ballot."

He said the same discrepancies showed up in a check of absentee ballot applications in the July primary election.

Haley also said it appeared that post office boxes were being used as a means of "colonizing bloc voters."

More than 100 persons showing the same post office box number as their residence got ballots in 1963 in Garland County, Haley said.

Haley said a check with Poinsett County Clerk Max Edens turned up more than 40 applications which listed the same post office box number in Trumann as a place of residence.

Edens told Haley that he had returned the applications but upon advice of his attorney would issue ballots upon applications in the future regardless of such suspicious circumstances, Haley said.

As of last Tuesday, Haley said, some 571 persons had applied for absentee ballots in Poinsett County. He said about 170 of these were servicemen.

"Oddly enough," Haley continued, "Tyronza, with only 1,003 holders of poll tax receipts, had 148 civilian absentee ballots this far."

"This means that better than one-out of seven will be unavailable or absent from the polls on election day. On the average only three or four per cent of the votes are cast absentee," Haley said.

He said a number of those applying for absentee ballots in Poinsett County had moved away in recent months and said Edens accepted a form of letter from the council for use in refusing to issue ballots to these applicants.

Haley said Edens told the council later that upon advice from an attorney, he would continue to issue ballots to any applicant holding a poll tax receipt, regardless of other qualifications.

Lashes Smear Campaign by Faubus

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller said today he believes Arkansans have too much decency to be influenced by what he called a smear campaign leveled against him by Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Rockefeller, the Republican candidate for governor, also accused Faubus, his Democratic opponent, of conducting a whispering campaign against him. Both appeared today before the Little Rock ministerial alliance.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the group of ministers, Rockefeller said, "I did not anticipate the sordid, sinister tactics which I have encountered. The opposition has instigated a campaign of slander, smears and tears, a campaign of suspicion, fear, cynicism, greed and arrogance."

"I am deeply concerned, as I know you are," he said. "All citizens must similarly be wondering why the desperate but deliberate and callous attempt at character assassination that has been directed towards me in this campaign."

Rockefeller said Faubus signed a legislative resolution in 1957 commending him for leadership in connection with the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission.

But he said Faubus now calls him "untried, inexperienced former playboy" and adds "I must now destroy the false image of Winthrop Rockefeller that I helped create."

"I have not sought to create an image," Rockefeller said. "I have been myself, and my life is an open book."

He then enumerated some of the things Faubus has used as campaign issues:

"My opponent has been concerned and made a campaign issue of the price of coal oil in 1911, while I have been trying to make an issue of the educational needs of the youth of our state."

"My opponent has tried to make an issue of the significance of eating a can of chili, while I have been trying to make an issue of the needs of our worthy welfare recipients."

"My opponent has been trying to make an issue of riding a freight train, while I have been trying to make an issue of improving the highway system in Arkansas."

"My opponent has been trying to make an issue of the allegation that I own an interest in a hotel that maintains a legal gambling establishment in Puerto Rico, a false statement which I have categorically denied, while I have been trying to make an issue of the fact that, in spite of his oath of office, he has condoned the notorious flaunting of the law by open casino gambling in Hot Springs for nine years and four months."

Simultaneously with these tactics, Rockefeller said, "there after he promised the people of the state in his campaign in 1954 that he would call on the State Police any time he had reason to believe Hot Springs gambling clubs were operating, and have the State Police enforce the law."

Rockefeller also said Faubus was trying to make an issue of where he gets his hair cut, "while I have been trying to make an issue of the fiscal integrity of the state's administration."

While Republicans have been trying to correct voting irregularities, Rockefeller said, Faubus "has been implying that we are merely seeking to make political mountains out of mole hills."

"Do not the voters of the state of Arkansas feel that the chief executive should show concern about proven irregularities rather than to try and hide them under the political carpet?" he asked.

Simultaneously with these tactics, Rockefeller said, "there has been injected a flow of tragically warped, insinuating and sometimes disgusting material in the mails and by word of mouth."

He said Faubus dropped to an "all-time low" by calling Rockefeller a "cemetery wrecker."

"The fact that the story is a complete fabrication, a lie, and has been denied makes little difference," Rockefeller said. "It has been said, the damage has been done."

"I believe our people have too much decency, too much capacity for righteous indignation, too much interest in the futures of their children and in the moral environment they are growing up in to permit these campaign tactics to influence them," Rockefeller said.

Fulton was named for Governor W. S. Fulton, this town was once an important river port on the boundary between the United States and Mexico.

Chicken Goes to a Party

The world over, chicken is a tradition for special occasions. A smart hostess knows that chicken is always popular. The smart party that features a wonderful chicken dish is certain to be a roaring success. For example, next time you have a party try Chicken Amantine with Rice Ring, suggests the National Broiler Council.

Here is a handsome company dish to delight a gourmet—diced cooked chicken combined with a creamy sauce and sliced almonds to be served in an elegant ring of rice. Garnish the dish with a border of chopped parsley and star cutouts of pimiento. Chicken is a good mixer—and actually ensures the success of a festive dinner.

Chicken Amantine With Rice Ring
1 1/2 cups chicken stock 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 cup light cream 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco
1/2 cup butter or margarine 1/2 cup dried sliced chicken
1 1/2 pounds mushrooms, sliced 1/2 cup toasted almonds
1 egg yolk
1/2 cup rice
1/2 cup almonds

Combine chicken stock and cream; reserve. Melt butter over low heat. Add mushrooms and cook, stirring occasionally, 10 minutes. Add flour; stir to a paste. Add chicken stock mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Add rice; simmer, stirring, until rice is tender. Add almonds. Sprinkle almonds on top.

Place 1/2 cup rice in a ring. Spoon chicken mixture around rice. Garnish with almonds. Serves 12.

No. 57 for Benefit of Jr. Colleges

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Proposed constitutional Amendment 57 is alternately praised as a means of filling an educational gap and cursed as an unnecessary threat to public school funds.

The amendment, placed on the Nov. 3 ballot by petitions circulated by the Helena Chamber of Commerce is simple: it merely authorizes the legislature to set up taxing districts to support junior colleges.

Forrest Rozzell, executive secretary of the Arkansas Education Association, the watchdog agency for the public schools, promptly attacked the amendment as a hoax.

He said it's title implies that is needed to give the legislature authority to set up taxing districts when it actually seeks authority to levy the tax. He said the legislature already can set up community college districts.

Rozzell said the amendment should have placed some limit on the taxing power the legislature can give the districts. He said that, as written, the boards of directors of the proposed institutions could be given authority to levy, raise or repeal a tax at their discretion.

Sponsors of the proposal are thinking more in terms of taxing power such as that accorded to school districts. The school boards set the tax rates, but they must be approved by popular vote.

The amendment would restrict operations to two-year colleges. For example, Phillips County (Helena) could join with surrounding counties to build a community college at Helena, Marianna or some other city. The school would be supported by a tax on real and personal property over the entire district. It is a threat to public school funds in that public schools get their local revenue from the same tax source.

But sponsors point out that more and more students are going to college each year, putting an ever greater strain on institutions of higher learning.

Community colleges would, they say, take off some of the pressure by taking care of many freshmen and sophomore students who would otherwise enroll in a senior colleges.

They say, also, that community colleges will put higher education within the reach of all.

Tomorrow: Amendment 55.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has urged all Americans to vote for his fellow Republican, Sen. Barry Goldwater, for president.

In a letter addressed "To All Voters, U.S.A.," and released Monday by Republican National Chairman Dean Burch, Eisenhower said:

"Liberty is our most precious possession. To keep it, we must have a firm foreign policy, a powerful military defense and a free economy. We must preserve our moral and spiritual heritage.

"Barry Goldwater shares these views and is dedicated to keeping the peace and providing the moral leadership we need. I hope you will join with me in voting for him for president November 3rd."

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Dr. Linus Pauling, twice winner of the Nobel Prize, claimed today that two million people now living will die from cancer induced by nuclear bomb tests.

In an address to 600 trade union members, Pauling said he expects the French to explode a 20-megaton bomb in the South Pacific. If they do, he said, it will lead to gross physical and mental defects in 500,000 unborn children.

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Air Force doctors, Capt. Richard M. Narkewicz and Capt. Stanley N. Graven, said in a report to the American Academy of Pediatrics on their study of 30 children that too much television can produce a "tired child syndrome." "The cycle is vicious," the doctors said. The anxiety produced by the television viewing inhibits sleep. Thus the child is too tired to play. So he watches more television, and it continues.

production of 100,000 cars a week.

This loss of production came just at the time when new models were beginning to go to dealers.

The dealers saw their supplies of new cars vanish in the face of heavy demand. They felt that many of the lost sales will never be recovered but went to other manufacturers. Ford and Chrysler, which reached agreements with the United Auto Workers Union earlier, kept on producing.

New car sales in mid-October sagged well below a year earlier totaling 164,306 against 211,980, a loss of 23 per cent.

Most of the loss was in GM sales, which fell 51 per cent to 56,106 from 113,488 a year earlier. On the other hand, Chrysler sales gained 23 per cent and Ford 12 per cent.

Suppliers of materials for cars — steel, rubber, glass, etc. — lost business while GM was shut down. They, too, may be slow in regaining it.

The domestic automobile manufacturers' hopes of an 8-million car production year were set back, according to the Value Line Investment Survey, an investment advisory and business downs, which closed American Motors briefly in addition to GM chopped more than 300,000 units out of the record production programs scheduled for the fourth quarter of this year.

Value Line's report estimated that 1965 model production will fall to about 7.25 million units, about 10 per cent below the 1964 total.

Pine Bluff was originally built on bluffs above the Arkansas River, the town was named for the pine trees which were common to the bluffs. The town's earlier name was Mount Maria.

Divorce Law in Virginia Is Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld today validity of a Virginia law requiring that divorce decrees state the race of the husbands and wives.

Two Negro women appealed from a decision by a special three-judge federal court in Alexandria, Va. The special court said that vital statistics "obviously are aided by denotation in divorce decrees of the race of the parties."

The Supreme Court, in a brief order, summarily affirmed the special court's ruling. The order noted that Justices John M. Harlan and William J. Brennan favored hearing argument on the appeal before announcing a decision.

The women in appealing to the Supreme Court contended the state requirement violates the U.S. Constitution guarantee of equal protection of laws.

One of them, Barbara Jackson Williams, said the requirement threatened harm in her pending divorce action. The other, Gladys Quander Tancil, asked a court order striking from a 1952 divorce decree the word "colored."

In a second decision, the Supreme Court affirmed a lower court ruling that a Virginia

Little Detail on Issues of the Campaign

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential campaign draws toward a close on Halloween but it sounded a little spooky anyway.

President Johnson, who almost never refers to Sen. Barry Goldwater by name, keeps asking his audiences: "Whose thumb do you want on the button?"

And Goldwater replies with a question: "Do you want one man's thumb on your country, or do you want yours?"

Europeans, reading what the two men say about each other, may get the impression they're cowboys galloping around the rim of disaster.

Goldwater says the nation must chart a new course or commit suicide.

Johnson refers to the Goldwaterites as "men who want to veto the future."

The campaign has produced two kinds of words and phrases: the oddball and the rubbery kind. Both men have had a hand in the authorship.

There's the oddball: frontlash, backlash, smearlash and daddysm.

The rubbery kind are the words that different people can stretch into different meanings, like peace, corruption, morality, responsibility, freedom.

But one of the most notable features of this almost unnotable campaign is the way the candidates spread fog over the political landscape.

This is accomplished by talking for weeks while spelling out hardly anything in detail.

Johnson talks of extending federal programs without being specific and Goldwater wants to stop the spread of socialism at home and communism abroad while not bothering much about that little detail: How?

The President almost without exception has deliberately avoided mentioning Goldwater by name while trying to ruin him with the voters.

Goldwater calls Johnson the "most power-hungry man in American politics," had made a theme song of suggesting corruption in the Johnson administration without producing evidence, and says, "When immorality occurs, it always starts at the top."

Yet, when some youngsters boomed the mention of Johnson, Goldwater chided them: "Please, do not boo the President. It is not ladylike or gentlemanly."

Within less than a day after calling the President a "phony" and a "faker," Goldwater said he would wage the campaign solely on the issues without any personal attack.

But he went on from there to say "the shadow of scandal falls... across the White House, itself," referred to Johnson as "whitewash Lyndon... the medicine man," called his anti-poverty program "cynical" and accused him of "buying votes."

Before he ever got the presidential nomination, Johnson said, "I am not going to start passing personal opinions on the expressions of the other party."

Later he was calling Goldwater, without naming him, a "ranting, raving demagogue," described him as the "new and frightening voice of the Republican party" and suggested by implication his opponent was a "plucked banty rooster" with a "plastic credit card."

If voters get goosepimples from all this, they can get their blood circulating again by climbing on their brooms and flying off to the election polls next Tuesday.

A Political Report on Pennsylvania

EDITOR'S NOTE — Pennsylvania, with 29 electoral votes, has the third largest total after New York and California.

President Johnson appears to have a long lead in Pennsylvania now. Here is a report on the political situation in the Keystone state.

By JACK LYNCH

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania's political leaders, Republican and Democrat alike, are working harder than they ever have before in a presidential election campaign.

They are being spurred, for different reasons, by polls which indicate that President Johnson enjoys a heavy lead over Sen. Barry Goldwater in the race to capture Pennsylvania's 29 electoral votes.

Republicans headed by Gov. William W. Scranton are working intensively to prevent a Democratic landslide which, in addition to giving them a black eye nationally would threaten their hold on the state legislature.

Democrats, fearing that the polls might lead to complacency among their workers, are working to give Johnson a major triumph and, at the same time, capture at least the lower house in the state legislature.

Polls of Pennsylvania voter sentiment generally follow the national pattern as indicated by widely published pollsters.

One poll taken last week by the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette in the city's "barometer" wards indicated that 66 per cent of the voters favored Johnson. Only 12 per cent were for Goldwater with 22 per cent undecided.

The feelings of many Pennsylvanians were ruffled by Goldman-bodyguard springs from the right front seat; two Spanish police guards snap to attention at the building entrance.

From the car emerges Maria Martinez Trujillo, widow of the former dictator of the Dominican Republic and titular head of the fabulously wealthy, exiled Trujillo clan. She receives all the deference due a member of royalty.

Inside her lavish apartment she presides over the family and its fortune, yet recalls longingly the Trujillos' better days.

The downfall of the House of Trujillo began on a lonely road outside Santo Domingo, then Ciudad Trujillo, May 30, 1961, when political opponents shot dictator Rafael Leonidas Trujillo. For three decades he and his family had ruled the Caribbean nation as their fief.

Although stripped of power, the surviving Trujillos continue to live in splendor in exile. They also have been involved in some well-publicized family feuds and litigation, including a suit by some of the dictator's illegitimate children seeking a share of the family wealth.

The Trujillos try to avoid the spotlight. They do not wish to embarrass Spain's Generalissimo, Francisco Franco, who might withdraw his hospitality.

There is a formal extradition request hanging over Rafael Jr., the dictator's oldest son. The Dominican government wants to try him on murder charges.

Rafael now avoids the madrid night clubs he once favored. When not with his mother or with his wife and infant son in their Madrid hotel suite, he devotes himself to raising racing horses and polo ponies at the family stables with his brother-in-law, ex-Gen. Jose Luis Leon Estevez.

The handsome Estevez married Rafael's sister, Angelita. They live in a mansion in another section of Madrid where one of their neighbors is Juan D. Peron, the former dictator of Argentina.

water's defeat of Scranton for the presidential nomination.

Although Scranton said many harsh things about Goldwater in his 32-day campaign to win the nomination, the governor fulfilled a pledge to back the convention's choice and went into eight states in recent weeks to make speeches for the national ticket.

He also is campaigning heavily at home, appealing for support of Goldwater as well as for nominees for the state legislature. He says he needs a Republican legislature to complete the programs laid out for his final two years in the executive mansion.

Scranton also is considered to have played a role in convincing Sen. Hugh D. Scott, his floor manager at the GOP convention, to endorse Goldwater.

Scott, in a tough fight for reelection to a second six-year term, reluctantly agreed that as a Republican he had an obligation to support the entire ticket, including Goldwater.

But, running as a liberal Republican, he stresses his independence in areas of Pennsylvania where anti-Goldwater sentiment is heavy, and in conservative sections he points out his "party regularity." When he does mention Goldwater, he points out their differences, but says basic Republican principles are still better than those of the Democrats.

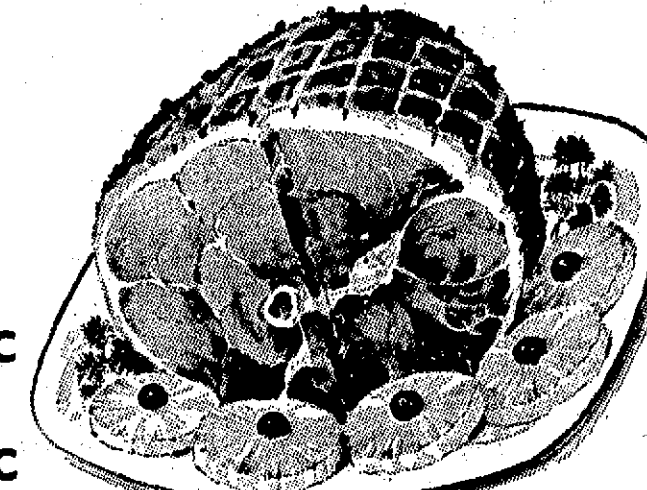

Scott's Democratic opponent, Miss Genevieve Blatt, who as state secretary of internal affairs became the first woman to win statewide office in Pennsylvania, constantly tries to link Scott with Goldwater.

Democratic candidates for Congress, the legislature and four statewide offices — auditor general, state treasurer, and two Superior Court judgeships — generally use the same tie-in strategy. They also campaign heavily on Johnson's record, hoping that the presidential vote will filter down to them.

U.S., British to Discuss Cooperation

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson confers today with the foreign secretary of Britain's new Labor government to lay a basis for future U.S.-British cooperation despite some policy differences over Red China and the handling of nuclear weapons within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Foreign Secretary Patrick Gordon Walker was scheduled to meet with Johnson following a morning session with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other State Department officials.

The British official, who arrived here Sunday, was scheduled to wind up his Washington visit with a midafternoon news conference at the British Embassy.

He was expected at that time to spell out the Labor government's views in some detail on outstanding world issues, including its assessment of the government shakeup in the Soviet Union and the significance of the Chinese Communist explosion of a nuclear test bomb earlier this month.

Gordon Walker is reported to have told Rusk in the course of meetings in the State Department Monday that Britain believes that Peking's entry into the nuclear weapons field makes admission of Red China to the United Nations more necessary than it was before.

Britain has long recognized the Chinese Communist regime, and British support for its membership in the United Nations is not new.

Nevertheless, Rusk and Gordon Walker reportedly agreed there was no prospect that Red China would gain entry to the United Nations at the forthcoming session of the General Assembly. They also agreed, officials said, that it probably would be desirable in view of the government change in the Soviet Union to delay the opening of the General Assembly meeting until around Dec. 1.

Rusk reportedly argued against the line that the Red Chinese explosion made the U.N. membership issue more urgent. He is understood to have insisted that any action by other

New Leaders Will Jockey for Position

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The year 1965 will be the year of the jockeys, no matter who wins the nations which could be interpreted as a reward for Communist China's aggressive policies would tend to make the Peking regime more difficult to deal with and encourage a hostile attitude toward the West.

The U. S. attitude toward the new British government's concern with the handling of nuclear weapons within the Western alliance is said to be one of readiness to consider whatever specific proposals will be advanced.

Gordon Walker and Rusk started talking about this complex of problems late Monday and authorities indicated that a great deal more discussion between the two governments and with other allies will be necessary before the Labor party leadership's ideas take precise form.

presidential election. New leaders in Britain, the Soviet Union and the winner here will be jockeying for position on the foreign policy track.

As they try to figure one another out it should be a busy, even a harrowing, year with perhaps fresh crises and unpredictable directions.

A new crew will be running the Kremlin. The Laborites, for a change, will be running England. The American president, Lyndon B. Johnson or Barry Goldwater will be comparatively new in foreign dealings.

Just about a year ago all three governments were headed by men who, by trial and error, had learned to know and deal with one another. Premier Khrushchev in the Soviet Union, Prime Minister Macmillan in Britain and President Kennedy here.

Macmillan, the first to go, quit last October. Last November Kennedy was assassinated. Two weeks ago Khrushchev got the heave-ho into obscurity by the Kremlin hierarchy.

In the Soviet Union, two men took Khrushchev's place: Leonid I. Brezhnev and Alexei N. Kosygin. They may be only temporary front men with the real boss not yet able to claw his way to the top or already in the wings, waiting to step up.

These two Russians, because of their meager dealings with the outside world until now, are a relatively unknown quantity. They talk of continuing Khrushchev's "peaceful coexistence."

Even if they planned the opposite it would hardly be time to say so yet since the reasons for Khrushchev's dismissal have not been announced. The rest of the Communist world seems unsure of what the new leadership means.

In Britain, Harold Wilson, whose party won the Oct. 15 elections, is the man in charge. He heads the first Labor government in 13 years. But the Laborites' margin of seats in Parliament is so small he may not last long.

Wilson never has been in a position to direct Britain's foreign policy before. Undoubtedly he will make some changes in it. Right after the election he said the voters had given his party a mandate for "many changes" over the whole field of government.

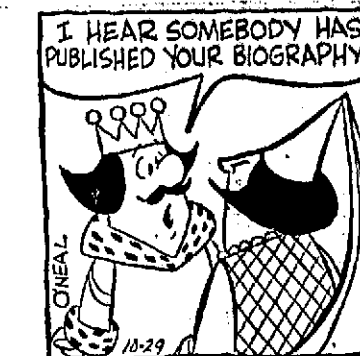

And here, whether the winner next Tuesday is Johnson or Goldwater, he will really be new to the rest of the world in major foreign dealing and dickering. Goldwater has had no say in foreign affairs, is not even on the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee.

In Johnson's 11 months in office, he has had to make some foreign decisions. He had a handful of domestic chores to worry about and concentrated first on them and then on the election campaign.

He has been aware of the foreign problems but all three nations — this country, Britain, the Soviet Union — have been pretty much rocking along on such understandings as there were between Kennedy, Macmillan, and Khrushchev.

Since Britain is an ally it can be assumed its relations with this country will remain on a fairly quiet plane. The real task for the new president is to understand what the new Soviet leadership means and to cope with it.

Meet in Darkness

Craig sat in the chair vacated by Lew. "This is not a professional job. Everything that's happened has borne out that idea. There's intense feeling behind it. Something that's been hanging fire for years, something evil."

"You're not saying there's something evil in Hugo?"

"Of course not, but at one time or another he must have been mixed up in some sort of dirty business involving the man who kidnapped him. Let's try to trace it back."

"But Dickie, I know nothing!" "You do know, Velma. You're not entirely aware of it, but you must know. There's something, a beginning, somewhere deep in your memory. That first night the voice on the phone rang a little bell. You knew you'd heard it before, years ago."

"Not his voice exactly. When he spoke to me on the phone, he must have disguised it, if he's someone I once knew. Not his voice, but his way of speaking."

"Yes, sardonic, taunting. But besides that, his verbal expressions and his accent aren't natural. Stagy. So is his planning stage, self-consciously clever. I think Lew hit the mark with out realizing it when he told this man to cut out the dramatics. He's had experience in the theater or the movies or both. An actor."

Velma answered with a short unhappy laugh. "Hugo was very hard on actors. Some, good ones, he refused to hire when they needed work desperately. Some, also very good, he fired. Others he drove without mercy to bring out the best in them, and they smarted under it."

"But this goes deeper than any of that, Velma. Think what this man is doing to Hugo. His intentions is to wreck Hugo's business, to leave Hugo impoverished. But even that isn't enough to satisfy him."

Again Velma seemed to react inwardly. Then another thought came to him. "Hugo's no lightweight physically. But when I saw him he was apparently drugged, helpless. That calls for quite a supply. The kidnaper must know how to go about getting more of it wherever he may be."

Still no response. Craig thought: "Hopeless—no use probing any more." He said, "All right, Velma. If you should think of something—" and turned away.

"Dickie!" He stopped short and turned back. Velma had sprung up from her chair.

Her eyes rounded with frightened amazement. "Win Shepard!"

It flashed his mind back to the Magna Pictures lot. He recalled Shepard as another one of those photogenic young men who kept cropping up in the studio's search for new star material. Like the others, his chief asset was his sexy, handsome looks rather than any acting ability he might possess—a type called "cute" by immature women and teenage girls. He had wavy blond hair, the requisite profile, a charming if self-satisfied smile, a bearing verging on the cocksure. And also an affected manner of speaking.

To begin with, Shepard had been appearing in a Broadway play, a minor part, and one of Magna's producers had spotted him. He had signed the usual seven-year contract with options at six-month intervals. He was on a fast climb to stardom. Being supremely confident of it, he began displaying even more flash and arrogance. Then it was noticed that Shepard hadn't been seen around the Magna lot lately, or, for that matter, anywhere else. There was a rumor that he'd been loaned out to another studio, another rumor that his latest option hadn't been picked up for reasons involving studio politics, still another that he'd jumped his contract in favor of a wealthy widow.

The front office wasn't talking, and everybody else was too busy to go on guessing for very long. Looking back now, Craig thought the most probable explanation was that, for some un-revealed but driving reason, Shepard had been forced to pull up stakes and make himself scarce overnight.

"No wonder it was so hard for me to remember, Dickie! I wasn't there when it happened. I was traveling with my father and mother—a trip to Sweden."

"What was it, Velma?" "In his letters Hugo never mentioned it. I knew nothing about it until I came back home, and then it was all over, except that Hugo was still terribly upset. He couldn't work—he could think only of finding Sari."

Sari. Craig had spoken of her to Lew, but except for that one reference it was a name he hadn't heard mentioned in years. (To Be Continued)

Orange-Date Muffins

M-m-m-m-muffins! Watch eyes light up when you pass a basket of piping-hot Orange-Date Muffins for breakfast. These fluffy little quick breads will bring out the cool deliciousness of a luncheon fruit plate, too.

Muffin mix is a breeze with enriched self-rising flour. This dependable baking product already has baking powder and salt added for preparation ease and perfect baking results.

Serve muffins and other home-baked breads often. Your family will love you for it — and you'll be glad you're serving them treats that help round out their meals nutritionally. Everytime you bake with enriched self-rising flour you add three essential B-vitamins and the minerals iron and calcium to your family's diet.

ORANGE-DATE MUFFINS

- 2 cups sifted enriched self-rising flour*
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 cup chopped dates
- 1 teaspoon grated orange rind
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 cup milk
- 3 tablespoons melted shortening or oil

Grease medium-sized muffin pan. Preheat oven to 425°. Into medium-sized mixing bowl combine flour and sugar. Stir in dates and orange rind. Blend together egg, milk and shortening or oil. Add liquid all at once to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Fill muffin cups 2/3 full. Bake 20 to 25 minutes, or until golden brown.

*If you don't sift and in the absence of other directions, spoon flour directly from container into a one-cup dry measure, level off, then remove two level tablespoonsful, according to USDA recommendations.

Fall sun and brisk winds irritate eyes as much as summer glare. Pamper them with soothing lotion.
